

raffia is doubled around the upper left-hand vertical spoke and the ends are brought together and down over the horizontal spokes, to the right of the lower end of the same spoke. The strand goes back of this spoke out on the left and up to the right of the upper end of the second vertical one. It passes back and out on the left, down over the horizontal group and around the lower end of the same spoke from right to left. So it goes on until all the vertical spokes have been bound. Care must be taken to keep the horizontal ones flat and

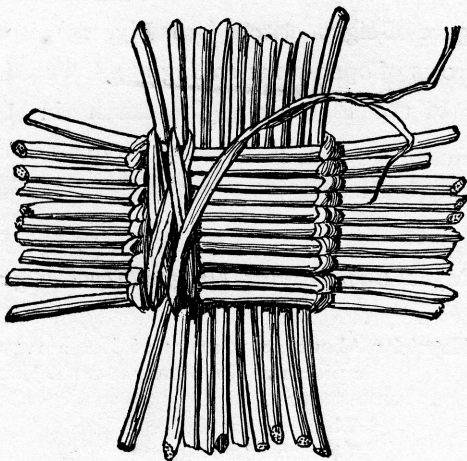

FIG. 33